MUZZLE THE BULLDOGS.

A bulldog caught a pet cat, in front of the Windsor hotel, on Twenty-fifth street, Thursday evening, and the cries of the cat attracted a crowd and later a policeman. The officer used his club, but the dog persisted until the cat was dead and then, like a lion in the jungles of South Africa carrying off its victim, the blood-thirsty animal, with the cat dangling from its mouth, ran down the street.

Yesterday, in Salt Lake, a bulldog attacked Mildred English, a girl 10 years old, and before many who heard her screams could reach the child, the dog had torn the flesh and inflicted deep bruises.

Three years ago William Shealy was set upon by a bulldog and he had a desperate struggle before he could free himself. Not long ago women on Twenty-seventh street, between Washington and Adams avenues, saw two bulldogs tear a large St. Bernard dog to pieces. The sight caused a number of the women to become hysterical and suffer nervous collapse.

The lesson of all this is that a bulldog is a dangerous brute and that not one of the animals should be allowed to go unmuzzled.

All the dogs in Ogden are not worth the life of a child, yet some day, with the great increase of bulldogs in this city, someone's baby will be sacrificed to the ferocious animals, if the law does not compel every owner to muzzle his bulldog.

PESTS IN UTAH FIELDS.

How to destroy the alfalfa weevil is a question which the experts of the agriculture department are endeavoring to answer. The weevil continues to spread through the alfalfa fields of Utah, having reached the southern end of Weber county. It is a most destructive pest and presents many difficult problems for the experts in their campaign of eradication.

One plan is to investigate the habits of birds and, if possible, have the birds of Utah battle for the farmers. Edwin R. Klambach of the biological survey, Washington, D. C., is shooting birds in the fields near Salt Lake and examining their stomachs to determine the birds that feed on the weevil.

Mr. Klambach says the birds are shot in the morning hours, after they have done their heaviest feeding. Their stomachs are examined to see if they eat alfalfa weevil in any quantities. Just now the weevil is in the grub state. Later, when the insects develop, we may find that the swallows will frequent the stubble fields and devour the bugs. It may even be found that the English sparrow is an enemy of the weevil. Those birds which are found to be most destructive to the alfalfa weevil will be protected and they will be encouraged to breed.

A few years ago the sugar beets of the intermountain country were affected by a blight. Later the government experts discovered that a parasite, which came out of the weeds and brush, its native habitat, did the damage and that the safeguard is to keep the fields and highways free from brush piles and growths of weeds.

Often a simple method of fighting these farm pests is discovered by these close-observing, patient laborers in the employ of the government. The most difficult part of their work is in tracing a plant disease to its source and, if due to a parasite, in correctly recording the habits of the pest.

HOW TO CEASE TO BE A "SUCKER."

An article, entitled "The Race of Suckers," is the history of a hog swindle in California. The gullible are invited to pay $1 a week for 100 weeks to a "hog raising" concern, which promises to return big profits. The article says:

"Presumably lest those who have been bit before may think the hog company to be nothing but another swindling get-rich-quick concern, the prospectus carefully limits the possible profits of the deluded by 'reserving the right' to buy the original hog and all of her or his descendants at the end of 100 weeks for $150—thus limiting the possible gains to a beggarly 50 per cent on two years' business.

"It is improbable that this concern will fool away any of the money it takes in by buying any hogs. The 'managers' will keep all the money they get until finally run down by the postal authorities and sent to the penitentiary.

"And yet there is little doubt that they will rake in large sums from the gullible, nor will such exposures as this appreciably diminish their sales. The trial of the officials of the alleged 'United Wireless Telegraph company,' which was doing a lively business about a year ago, discloses that nearly $2,000,000 was raked in by that swindle in the West alone.

"Rubber plantation" stock was in fashion a year or two ago. At that time crude rubber was selling around $3 a pound, and the literature predicted certain rises far beyond that. At latest mail advices Para rubber was selling in New York at $1.12 per pound.

More recently eucalyptus plantations have done a good business. "The best place for savings is in the savings bank. If one prefers securities, let him permit his money to accumulate at savings bank interest until he has enough to pay for a share or two or a bond of some well-known concern."

On Monday the Standard expects to start several hundred Ogdenites, who in the past have overlooked the virtue of putting a dollar away in a bank to draw interest, on the road to depositing in one of our savings banks. Once the habit is acquired and the good which flows therefrom is experienced by our people, the promoter of "wildcat" and other frauds will find Ogden a less inviting field for him than it has been in the past.

The savings bank is the antidote for the poison of the investment fraud.

SHOULD PEACE PLANS FAIL; CAPITAL DOOMED

JUAREZ, May 18.—If by any chance the present plans for peace in Mexico fail, within twelve hours of that time Mexico City itself would be cut off from all outside communication and invested by the insurgent army under Figueroa. The investment of Chihuahua City would follow within a day or two.

So complete are the further war plans of the Mexican revolutionists, and so confident are the leaders in their certainty of success, that the flat statement was made at Madero's headquarters today that a slip in the peace negotiations would be followed by the severest blow yet dealt the federal government, and that the siege of Mexico City and Chihuahua would be pushed relentlessly.

Mobilization of Troops.

The five-day armistice proclaimed last night explicitly provides for the mobilization of troops at suitable camps in territory controlled by either side. This applies to the state of Chihuahua. This morning a force of 250 insurgents left Juarez to guard the Mexican National line stretching toward Chihuahua. Already between 250 and 300 of the federalists captured at Juarez have gone to work with the repair gangs along the line of the Mexican National and the Mexican Northwestern. Within two days close to 2,000 insurgents will be moved from Juarez to the new base at Casas Grandes, augmenting the rebel forces already stationed along the railroad, and with the forces now some of Chihuahua, a force of 2,500 men, well supplied with field guns and rapid-firers, and with their base of supplies well guarded, could be thrown around Chihuahua within a short time.

A garrison of about 500 will remain at Juarez, but Casas Grandes will be made the mobilization point for any possible campaign against Chihuahua City.

Troops Near Home If Peace Comes.

Should the peace break in the plans for peace, the movement southward of the Juarez army will bring a large proportion of the troops near to their homes when orders come for disbandment. All but a few of the forces under Orozco, Villa, Blanco and other insurgent leaders making up the northern army have their homes in northern Chihuahua, and thus the inevitable disbanding of the forces that have aided in winning the Mexican revolution will be greatly simplified.

QUEBEC VILLAGE UPHOLD FRENCH

NEW YORK, May 18.—A dispatch from Vercheres, a village on the St. Lawrence river, thirty miles from Montreal, says:

"A demonstration unique in the history of Vercheres has just been held here. The postoffice was indicated by a notice bearing the English sign, 'Postoffice.' The population, wholly

French-Canadian, assembled in front of the postoffice, and after singing patriotic songs, posted a new sign-board bearing the words, 'Bureau of Posts.' The cure of the parish delivered a speech in favor of the use of the French language.

The Dr. Was In a Cyclone

Dr. B. N. Alsworth, the physician of Purvis, Mississippi, writes interesting details about the cyclone that devastated that section. We quote: "I suppose you saw a notice in the papers that we had a cyclone on the 24th of May. It swept our little town about off the earth. Thank Providence, my family and I came out alive, but my drug store was swept to the winds. We are picking up slowly. I found four bottles Fulton's Renal Compound unbroken and gave them to a lady whom the other physicians had given up (kidney disease). She came to me as soon as she heard that I had returned to my practice again, and I put her on the Renal Compound and she is now nearly well. But I need more, and you will please send me another dozen of the Renal Compound from our nearest shipping point."

"In haste,"

"B. N. ALSWORTH, M. D."

How can people who have any kind of kidney trouble expect to get well on the old fiddle kidney patents when the census deaths show that ninety-two out of every hundred of them passed from a form of the disease that was incurable up to the date that Fulton worked out his Renal Compound?

Due to the failure of the old-time kidney medicines, the kidney deaths now number one every nine minutes. Isn't there room here for serious reflection for the man who is on his way to the drug stores for a kidney medicine?

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS

A Few Applications of a Simple Remedy Will Bring Back the Natural Color.

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is an old saying which is, to a great extent, true, if steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "Sage tea" which our grandparents used. The best preparation of this kind is Wyle's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants, the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Wyle's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agent, BADCON PHARMACY, 2421 Wash.

TELLS OF PLOT TO RUIN M'NAMARA

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 18.—James Elliott, a structural iron worker, is held by the police for investigation following an alleged confession made to officers of the local union, implicating Detective W. J. Burns, Attorney William Dress and local detectives in a plot to ruin John J. McNamara and others.

James Elliott, a structural iron worker of this city, appeared before labor leaders here tonight and made an alleged confession in which he charged officers of the National Erectors' association and detectives employed by it with working buildings throughout the country constructed by non-union labor.

The alleged confession was made to William Kelly, president of the Iron City Trades Council, A. L. Lyons, secretary of the Structural Iron Workers' union, and W. H. Leisler, vice president of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers. The labor leaders then turned Elliott over to the police, who are holding him for further investigation.

The affidavit was not given out, but in his statement to the police Elliott said he had made the confession because he was not paid for information furnished the Erectors' association and for which he was promised $1,000.

PARIS, May 18.—"I believe that the resignation of President Diaz will not really stop the revolution."

This declaration was made this evening by Vice President Corral of Mexico, whose resignation, along with that of President Diaz, has been proffered by the Mexican administration as a concession to the revolutionists.

Senor Corral has been ill several days, but he consented this evening to give out a statement on the situation in his country. He said he had received no official advice or personal messages from President Diaz, who, until he heard directly from the president, he would make no decision about resigning. Nevertheless, he indicated that he foresaw a possibility that the condition of his health might necessitate his retirement.

The vice president showed intense interest in press dispatches bearing on the peace arrangements.

Revolution Will Not End.

After their personal he exclaimed: "Let me say this again—the retirement of President Diaz will not end the revolution because Madero's authorities exist only in the state of Chihuahua. In the other disturbed provinces he has no real influence. I believe it almost certain that the revolution will continue throughout the affected areas, at least in guerrilla form."

MADERO CANNOT CONTROL REBELS

Policemen all over the world use T. I. Z. Policemen stand on their feet all day and know what sore, tender, swollen feet really mean. They use T. I. Z. because T. I. Z. cures their feet right up. It keeps feet in perfect condition. Read what this policeman has to say: "I was surprised and delighted with T. I. Z. for tender feet. I hardly know how to thank you enough for it. It's superior to powders or plasters. I can keep my feet in perfect condition. Believe in my earnest gratitude for T. I. Z. I am a policeman and keep on my feet all day."—Emory Harrell, Austin, Texas.

You never tried anything like T. I. Z. before for your feet. It is different from anything ever before sold.

T. I. Z. is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. T. I. Z. draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. T. I. Z. cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet.

You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

T. I. Z. is for sale at all druggists at 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct if you wish from Walter Luther Lodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

AVOID DEBT AND ACQUIRE THE Habit of Saving Money

the revolution the vice president replied that the only way was for the federal army to pursue the rebels persistently and constantly until they finally conquered them. Regarding the situation, he was of the opinion that it was a critical moment for the country. "Not only is it a moment of gravity for the Mexican themselves," he said, "but for foreign nations like the United States, France and Great Britain, whose heavy financial interests as well as brotherly concern, make them earnestly wish that the future would bring peace." Senor Corral said he had faith in the plans of General Reyes' reorganization of the Mexican army.

De Angelis explained that a wound in his leg which he had received in prison in 1894 had reopened in 1906, this being the wound which Ascaritro asserted was caused by Cuocoilo in defending himself.

The president of the court ordered De Angelis to uncover his leg and show the scar to the jury.

De Angelis reiterated that he had never committed any crime necessitating the letting of blood, and he added that he used to go out and steal with a copy of the penal code in his pocket, so that he might be able to tell what punishment he would receive if discovered. He admitted that he lived only a short distance from the spot where Cuocoilo was killed.

There is nothing more frightful in a happy home than to have one of its members instantly seized with a dreadful attack of Epilepsy or Fits. The many grateful letters from such homes, after the use of Kosine, the remarkable remedy for this dread ailment, testify to the real merit of the preparation.

It is a meritorious article and is sold on a guarantee plan that deserves your confidence. The price $1.50 will be refunded by BADCON PHARMACY, 2421 Wash. GIFT OF FINE CLOISONNES

The Brooklyn Institute Museum announces that S. P. Avery, who gave the museum ninety-two pieces of Chinese cloisonne from his private collection a year ago, making the museum's collection the finest public exhibit of the kind in the country, has added to his original gift forty-five pieces purchased by him at the recent sale of the Robert Hoe collection and twelve additional pieces from his own collection. These gifts, Mr. Goodyear, curator of fine arts in the museum, says, give the museum a collection unrivaled not only in the United States but also among the public collections of Western Europe.

The entire collection is now on view in the square eastern gallery on the first floor of the museum, where it fills seven large upright cases out of the nine which the gallery has space for. While Mr. Avery has not disclosed the prices paid for these acquisitions, the pieces in the original gift were valued at between $40,000 and $50,000 and the recent additions, estimating roughly their commercial value, are worth not less than $18,000.

The collection is remarkable for the rare quality and beauty of color as well as the number of objects. The three smallest vases from the Hoe collection, ranging as they do from ten to fourteen inches in height, would be considered large in any other company, but they become small when compared with the four tallest, which range from twenty-four to thirty inches in height.

One case holding the collection is dominated by a great, plain, or conical vessel, the pieces of the Ming dynasty. Beneath it is placed a Ming palanquin brazier thirty inches long by twenty inches broad and nine inches high.

This case is balanced by another which has for its upper center piece a K'ang-hsi dove shaped altar wine vessel on wheels twenty inches high, while the lower center piece is a Ch'ien-lung circular incense-burner twenty-two inches in diameter and twenty inches high. A third case has as its center piece a Ch'ien-lung dragon entwined stand with hanging enameled basket which is thirty-eight inches high. This case contains also four tripod incense burners and a Buddhist shrine, both of the Ch'ien-lung period.

In a fourth case are placed the six largest vases of the collection (four Ming, one K'ang-hsi and one Ch'ien-lung), surrounded by a drum-shaped garden seat of the K'ang-hsi period. The coloring of this latter piece, the curator thinks, makes it one of the most beautiful of the collection.—New York Sun.

Cupid's Retreat.

The old man was down in the furniture store. "By the way," he said, "just before leaving, my daughter has just started to have a young man calling, and I suppose I should buy them a pretty sofa to make love on."

"Yes, sir," responded the dealer, "and here is the very kind you need. It is called 'Cupid's Retreat.'"

"H'm! What are the good points?"

"Why, in just one year the cover wears off, displaying a card—it is time to get married!"—Mack's National Monthly.

Just Guessing.

During the term instruction had been given as to the visit of the Dutch fleet to the Medway. In examination the following question was put: "Explain the context of the passage, 'This would never have happened if Oliver had been alive.'" One answer was as follows: "This was said when they dug up the body of Oliver Cromwell after the restoration."—Punch.

All Below Physical Standard.

Young people who get into the London prisons have been carefully examined during the last ten years by the medical authorities and they are found to be two inches shorter and 14 pounds lighter than the average of the youthful industrial population. Twenty-six per cent of these young offenders suffer from some physical disease or deformation or mental defect.

THE PREPONDERANCE OF EVIDENCE.

"Sorry," said the constable, "but I'll have to arrest you—you been driving along at the rate of fifty miles an hour."

"You are wrong my friend," said the driver. "I say I wasn't and here's a ten dollar bill that says I wasn't."

"All right," returned the constable, "pocket the money. With 11 to 1 against me, I ain't going to subject the county to the expense of a trial."

Commercial Mausoleum.

A company has been formed in Cincinnati to erect and rent a mausoleum. This is to be a large building, where bodies may be taken by survivors who own no burial plot and who have no desire to buy one. There will be compartments in the building, arranged like shelves in a library, and on these the bodies are to be placed. By an evaporating process they will be reduced to dust. It is the purpose of the undertakers of this business scheme to rent or to sell compartments of all sizes, ranging from the "single" to the "large family" size.

The most famous of all boundary marks in song and story is the "Pillar of Farewell," which marks the line between Russia and Siberia. On the west side it bears in Russian characters the word "Europe," on the other "Asia."
